chicken wing [noun]

Once regarded as food for the poor, the lowly chicken and its skinny wings were formerly chucked or used as stock. Today, chicken is the king of meats in North America, and we consumed 25 billion wings in 2011 and 100 million pounds of chicken wings on Superbowl Sunday alone. "Buffalo" wings were first created at the "Anchor Bar" by Dominic Bellissimo and his wife on a busy Friday in 1964.
